Overview:

Do you use data to help drive decision making in your organization? Do you know what pieces of information are most important to look at when making decisions? Can you better your team's performance by focusing on initiatives that will truly effect change? Learn how you can better implement data-driven decision making within your organization.

Learning Objectives:

At the conclusion of this session, participants will be able to:

- Establish the key performance indicators (KPIs) that are essential to traction and accountability.
- Determine which team members will lead your initiatives.
- Champion implementation of best practices for using data to improve cost, quality, access and outcomes.
- Identify partners to help your organization be more data-centric.
